Assaulted by a Game Cock.

A LITTLE CHICAGO GIRL DANGEBOUSLY INJURED BY A VICTOR'S ROOSTER CHICAGO, June 25 .- The two-and-a-half-year-old daughter of Thomas Barrett is lying dangerously ill at her father's residence, No. 61 Ohio street, from the effects of an assault made on her Thursday afternoon by a vicious game chicken, the property of Patrick Crowley. Little Sarah, while playing in the backyard, saw the little game cock fly over the fence into her yard. Having seen her mother "shoo" the chickens back to their own territory the child ran toward the chicken, waving her skirts and crying, "Dit out, dit out." To her great surprise the rooster ran toward her with outstretched wings. Flying to her head he struck her with his spurs near the temples and beat her in the Jace with his wings until she fell bleeding to the ground. He then pecked and gaffed the child about the head until her screams brought her mother to the scene. Mrs. Barrett was compelled to seize the broom-stick and make for the chicken before it ran off. The father applied to Justice Kersten yesterday for permission to kill the rooster, but he was informed that there was no ordinance covering the legal dis-Ill at her father's residence, No. 61 Ohio street, that there was no ordinance covering the legal dis-position of a vicious gamecock. The child will re-cover, though her condition was such Thursday night that a physician had to be summoned.

Ghastly Find by Two Children. WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., June 25 .- James Low, aged

13, and his sister, aged 8, caused a sensation at Dewart, this county, to-day by digging up the remains of Nelson E. Wade, a murderer, who was executed in this city 14 years ago. The dead murderer was buried in the corner of a cornfield, the exact location of the grave being carefully concealed. As time rolled on, however, doubts were expressed as to whether Wade had ever been expressed as to whether Wade had ever been buried, many asserting that his remains had been given to the physicians for dissection.

The discovery of the remains caused a great sensation in Dewart, as much over the courage of the two children as satisfying a long existing doubt. Wade killed an aged couple named McBride, misers, who lived on a lonely road near Linden.

Saw Her Child Crushed to Death. LIMA. June 25.-The infant child of Chas. Wolf had its brains crushed out yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Wolf entered a store and left the little one sitting in its buggy on the pavement. A gust of wind started the buggy toward the gutter, into which it upset, throwing the child under a horse which, becoming frightened, commenced kicking and crushed the little one to death. The mother went into spasms at the sight, and is not expected

Queer Campaign Wagers. SINGULAR BETS MADE ON THE RESULT OF THE PARSI-DENTIAL ELECTION.

From the Troy Standard. Now that the great national campaigns are about to be begun I suppose the betting men will now get to work also. A correspondent at Rome informs me that the Pope has just finished a book on the social condition of the working classes, on which he has been engaged for a year. If you want to be a court reporter. in which case you will have to report just exactly what the speaker says, and nothing elso, it will take you two or three years to learn. But if you merely want to report political speeches, in which occupation you merely look wise while you make hen tracks, and then go to the office and write down the speech from memory, making the speaker say whatever you think will please the managing editor and hurt the other party, about six weeks' light study, with intervals of recreation, will be a thorough university course.

Even the working class, who might, on many accounts, find that a more convenient day, or rather evening, on which to hold a wedding, the plantation darkies used to matrimonially utilize it at all. But of late wealth and fashion have favored it, and this June it has almost become the fashionable day. A GENUINE DEADLOCK. The Situation at Chicago Last Night.

The republican convention at Chicago reassembled shortly after 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, but immediately adjourned again to 11 o'clock Monday morning without taking a ballot. The precise reason for this action is not It is said that the Blaine men had prepared a plan to nominate Blaine on the first or second ballot on Saturday Alabama was to lead the way, and be followed by all the Blaine states in succession. New York join-ing with fitty votes, and the Blaine men in Penn-sylvania leaving the leadership of Quay and re-turning to their first love. Even Ohio, led by Gov. Foraker, who wants the second place on the ticket, was to contribute twenty or twenty-five votes to the grand old column. All this is known, but it is not known why the scheme was abandoned. A Chicago man, who has been empowered to speak for Mr. Blaine, and who is a man of good judgment and not a politician, was called into a conference of Blaine leaders just before the meeting of the convention. He was informed of the plan in hand, and was shown a list of 423 sure and reliable Blaine delegates, or an assured majority of able Blaine delegates, or an assured majority of the whole convention. This man looked over the list, saw that it comprised the names of delegates who are ostensibly for other candidates, and at once gave his dictum as follows: "This thing must come to a stop," said he. "Mr. Blaine cannot take this nomination by riding over the rights of any of the men now in the field. He regards them all as his friends, and knows they have entered this centest in good faith, believing him to be out by his own act. You propose to draw delegates from the support-You propose to draw delegates from the supporters of these men to undermine them and deteat them. It you nominate him in this way a cable-gram will be received from him in twenty minutes declining the nomination, and you will then be in a worse predicament than ever. This thing must be stopped." Reluctantly Eikins and his colleagues consented to postpone the Biaine coup, and the friends of all this candidates except Har-rison joined the Biaine men in forcing an adjournment till Monday morning.

THE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE. The conference committee which was appointed Friday by the interests hostile to Harrison met Saturday, but found themselves practically without business, as Harrison was already out of the race. However, after various speakers had addressed the meeting upon the impossibility of nominating any man but Blaine, they appointed a committee to take the situation into consideration and to present to the conference committee a ticket which, if the members saw fit, they could report back to their delegations with the recommendation that they support it. A committee of ten was appointed, representing the different factions, consisting of Colonel Davis and Senator Farwell in behalf of Gresham, M. H. De Young for the Blaine movement, Hubbel and Clarkson for Allson, the Hon. Mr. Duffield for Alger, Governor Foster and the Hon. Benjamin Butterworth for Sherman. The conterence then adjourned until 2:30 and the committee immediately went into session, notify-Saturday, but found themselves practically withcommittee immediately went into session, notify-ing Senators Hoar and Quay to be present. Senator Quay did not immediately put in an appearance. The first action taken was by Senator Farwell, who, after complimenting Judge Gresham, said that for the sake of harmony he would withdraw his name.

Gov. Foster then addressed the meeting in behalf of John Sherman as the ablest man that the com-mittee could report in favor of. At the conclusion of Gov. Foster's remarks Mr. Duffield addressed the committee in favor of Gen. Alger. Congress-man Clarkson was then called upon, and he very strongly urged the claims of Senator Allison.

M. H. De Young being called on stated to the committee that he thought they were not there to listen to the praises of the different candidates, but to decide them the man that was most availabut to decide upon the man that was most available, and who could carry the country for the party; that the better plan would be to examine into the merits and demerits of the different candidates. Mr. De Young stated to the committee the objections upone by objections urged by the representatives from the Pacific coast to two or three of the candidates, setting forth their weaknesses, and concluded by saying there was no necessity of setting forth the claims and availability of Mr. Blaine, as everybody was too weel acquainted with him to require that.

At this moment Senator Quay came into the room. He stated to the committee that New York had decided to support Blaine, and he could not see how the nomination of Blaine could possibly be avoided. He fest that the majority of the convention would be in favor of it. The chairman, Senator Farweil, stated that in any event it was the duty of the committee to recommend the name of some candidate for the conference to support as a body, and the name of Congressman Mc-Kinley, of Onio, was proposed.

The committee was polied as to some of the candidates and by a large majority decided that Sherman was out of the fight; that Biaine being a possibility with the convention it was the duty of the committee to endeavor to select somebody outside

Mr. Duffield, the manager of the Alger forces, was asked who his delegation would support in the event that Gen. Alger was out of the way, to which he replied, Biaine.

The same question was put to Mr. De Young, who stated that his position was different from that of any gentleman present, his delegation supporting a candidate who, in his opinion, would be nominated. Therefore it was ridiculous to ask him to name a second choice, especially in view of the fact that the candidates represented by the other members of the committee were all practically out of the race.

At this stage of the proceedings Senator Hoar addressed the meeting, and said that Blaine was very dear to the people of Massachusetts; that they thought very highly of him, and that he could undoubtedly carry his state. He thought Congressman McKinley could also carry it if he was placed at the head of the ticket. The Ohio delegation, Gov. Foster and Gen Butterworth, refused to consider Sheiman out of the fight notwithstanding the committee had so decided. Repeated ballots were taken. On the first ballot in the committee no one candidate received over three votes. After repeated balloting McKinley received seven votes. The chaliman, Mr. Farwell, turned to Mr. De Young and asked him if he would recommend his delegation to support Mr. McKinley, and he repiled that he would not, that his delegation had declared for a man who how held the majority vote in the convention and it would simply be ridiculous to ask them when they had won their fight to refuse at that moment to vote for him. addressed the meeting, and said that Blaine was very dear to the people of Massachusetts; that they thought very highly of him and that he could undoubtedly carry his state. JOHN M. LANGSTON'S PREDICTION. Hayti, is quoted as having said in Chicago Wed-nesday that the nomination of Blaine now would ruin the party, and that the candidate must either ruin the party, and that the candidate must either be Sherman or a man named by Sherman. Said he: "John Sherman holds the balance of power among the candidates in the field. We are going to hold fast to our faith in Sherman and see what developments to-morrow bring forth. The Sherman forces hold the key to the situation, and when the time comes they will dictate the nominee. It will finally be either between Blaine and Sherman, or a Blaine man and a man named by Sherman. I was for Blaine at Cincinnati in 1876," continued Langston, warmly, "and won over the bishops of the colored church for him, notwithstanding his record on the force bill. But Blaine cannot be nominated now without dishonor, and if he should be prevailed upon to accept it will be not only defeat to Blaine, but shipweck for the republican party."

A MAINE VIEW OF THE SITUATION. This dispatch from Chicago was sent Saturday night from F. L. Dingley, the editor of the Lewiston Journal:

"All the boomers are at sea, Sherman and Gresham are rapidly dissolving. So far in the contests the efforts on behalf of McKinley are feeble. The chances for a conclusion on Monday are small, but the Blaine rush is pressing to-night, though the leading Blaine workers oppose the idea. Caucusses are now nursing the sick favorite. When the break comes neither Sherman nor Gresham nor Harrison can hold their forts. Nothing but the unlooked for can prevent Blaine's nomination."

SUMMARY OF THE SITUATION LAST NIGHT. The Baltimore American thus summarizes the situation last night: "The conferences Saturday and the combinations then formed indicated that and the combinations then formed indicated that the problem would be easily solved to-day by the nomination of either McKinley or Biaine. Sunday's conferences, however, changed the outlook. The conference of managers of all the candidates excepting Harrison, on Saturday, to settle upon one or two names to be presented to the convention today, failed to accomplish the result sought. They thought well of Allison and McKinley. The understanding was that Sherman and Gresham would day, falled to accomplish the result sought. They thought well of Allison and McKinley. The understanding was that Sherman and Gresham would withdraw; but these gentlemen refused to yield, notwithstanding the fact that Gov. Foraker declares that Sherman has no show and that 50 per cent of the Onio delegation is for Blaine. Stephen B. Elkins and others, who are trying to force Blaine's nomination by delaying the convention, are bitterly criticized by other friends of Mr. Blaine, who claim that he will not accept a nomination gained in such a manner. The McKinley dark-horse movement is now also looked upon by many suspicious persons as a part of the Blaine program. Most of the delegates who have thus far voted for McKinley are out-and-out Blaine men. This fact is regarded as showing an attempt on the part of the Blaine managers to use the dark-horse to beat all the others, and then to bring Blaine in to beat him. Mr. Blaine has been cabled the status of the situation, and some expression from him is confidently expected by the convention to-day. The Sherman and Allison managers claim to have greatly increazed the strength of their respective candidates, and Gresham is also hopeful again. There is a probability, however, that even if McKinley is innocently the victim of the Blaine managers, the strength of all the other candidates may go to him and carry him through in spite of the Blaine program.

CONVENTION SCENES. Notable Men and Women in the Galleries of the Great Hall.

A Chicago correspondent of the New York Sun in his account of the scenes in the convention Saturday, says:

Let the reader imagine himself the Sun reporter seated on a kitchen chair behind a pine board counter, scanning the convention with an eye trained by experience with crowds, and familiar with the faces of the idols of the public. Certainly to a republican it was a glad and an inspiring scene. Modestly tucked away upon the platform in a corner of the back gallery sat that chunk of human marble, Fred. Grant, blest with the most sensitive, intelligent, and responsive of women whom Chicago used to honor as her belle, Miss Honor's once again wearing the proud insignia of Honoré, ouce again wearing the proud insignia of her marriage in the shape of a diamond girdled portrait of Gen. Grant, pinned to a sailor suit by Worth. There was too much French blood in her to permit her doing what the other women did who kept a tally of the voting that followed. did who kept a tally of the voting that followed. She had no time for anything but drinking in the spirit of the convention. Beautiful in face, statuesque in body, and responsive as the tympanum of a teiephone, she inspired with intellectual alacrity all who looked upon her. It was fit that her husband should bend to the mechanical work of pencilling the duil ballots of the automatons, moved by five or six political king makers. The couple faced that Adonis of regenerated Africa, Bruce of Mississippi. Stour, round-faced, genial, and handsome, he sat the peer of any white man around him. Behind the officers of the convention insignificant-looking Senator Cullom, who looked like Abraham Lincoin seen through the wrong end of a telescope, sat as insensate as a bump on a log. telescope, sat as insensate as a bump on a log, knowing the secrets of what went on, but showing no more interest in them than the painted eagle on the wall above him.

Beside his wife under the back gallery, sat B. F Jones, distinguished only by the chairmanship of the national committee. He faced a figure in the opposite gallery upon which many eyes were riv-eted. It was that of the blonde beauty, Rachael Sherman, rightly proud of her lineage, rightly flattered whenever it showed it domination of the convention. On one side of her was Walker Blaine, well bathered studing and gallantly advention. well barbered, smiling, and gallantly advertising his tailor. On the other side of her sat Emmons Biaine, noted for kicking over the family traces, but showing in his face what his brother Waiker does not show, a trace of the family genius. The beautiful blonde girl beat over her taily-sheet with golden pencil noised and every sense elect to saver slik. Her blonde, wavy hair still framed her beauteous face, significant of intelligence, modesty and high spirit. The trio interested politicians keenly, for here sat in harmony the scions of majestic forces occupied with vigorous contention. The young blaines hoped for the downtail of the aspirations of the Sherman family. The diadem of that family bent her prayers upon the humiliation of the Blaines, Yet they sat together harmoniously, rendered amicable by their youth.

THE DEADLOCK CONTINUES.

Yesterday's developments seem not to have simplified the situation to any appreciable extent. It was thought probable in some quarters that a communication would to-day be received from Mr. Blaine requesting that no votes be cast for him. There is a deep feeling on all sides that the "Biaine-or-bust" program is not sanctioned by Mr. Blaine himself. The plan of the opposition, therefore, is simply to stand firm and wait for Mr. Blaine himself to speak, or for his assured representatives to force the issue.

I have been just as faithful, if not more so, and equally as conscientious as many members of the delegation to further his and ohio's interests. But, as I say, he is practically out of the question, and my support ceases from now on. There is almost 50 per cent of my delegation who are for Biaine, and when the convention meets Monday morning I shall vote with those delegates for Mr. Biaine's nomination. I in sist that it is the best of good politics that we take care of our state when it becomes apparent that our candidate cannot be nominated. Foraker also said that he did not know whether the rest of the Ohio delegation would adhere to Sherman or not.

WILD EXCITEMENT IN THE HOTELS.

It would be difficult to imagine scenes of wilder and hotter political turmoil than those which were enacted among the throngs in the Grand Pacific, the Palmer and the Leiand a few seconds after the noon adjournment of the convention. There was not a soul, from the bootblacks up, that did not believe that an effort was to be made the afternoon session. The report spread faster than a prairie fire. It swept like a bizzard through the Alger, Allison and Harrison head-quarters, and an the big leaders hurried to the consulting rooms. This is occasioned by the presence of a large company of eighty tourists from the Boston Conservatory of Music, who are to spend Sunday here. Besides these there are also some twenty-odd American business men, who happen to be here on their summer holiday. Nearly all of these men are from New England, and are with-out exception ardent admirers of Mr. Blaine. To hear the talk in the hotel lobby to-night one might easily imagine himself back in America. These wondering American citizens were gathered in front of the notel this evening when Mr. Carnegie's coach drove up and surprised Mr. Blaine by a hearty American cheer. This evening they asked to be received, but Mr. Blaine excused himself. He retired very soon to his rooms, where dinner was served. Mr. Carnegie was overrun during the evening by Scottish callers, who look up to him as the greatest man this country has produced in modern times. He is perfectly jubilant about the presidential campaign. At the same time he has talked unceasingly of his regret that Mr. Blaine was not formally in the lists as a candidate, and has certainly used his whole power as host to make Mr. Blaine a candidate.

About 200 gentlemen, representing from two-thirds to three-quarters of the wholesale grocery business of the United States, assembled in the Grand Central Hotel, in New York, Saturday. Their object was to organize a wholesale grocers' national association, organize a wholesale grocers' national association, the main purpose of which will be to so regulate the sugar market that in handling it a small margin of profit may be obtainable. It is claimed by the wholesale grocers that at present in handling sugars they do so at a loss. The retail grocers complain of the same grievance.

F. W. Imhusch, of Milwaukee, called the meeting to order and stated the object of the call. He explained quite fully the need of concerted action, but wanted it perfectly understood that the title trust could not be tolerated in referring to the action the wholesale grocers propose taking, although he said that a union would of course have to be accomplished with the sugar refiners.

The Name Sounded Familiar.

From the Boston Herald, June 23.

A little, brisk man, whose mustache seemed the largest part of him, stepped up to the clerk of the Hotel Vendome early Thursday morning and engaged apartments on the first floor front for his wife and daughter. He said that for reasons very satisfactory to himself he did not care to put his autograph on the hotel register, but that he would leave his name with the clerk. He said: "I am M. W. Fuller, or New York." The clerk wrote it on a card, which he laid on his desk. The gentleman from the metropolis then retired. Little has since been seen of him about the corridors. When the night clerk came on duty the day official gave him an idea of the 'usiness on hand, and said, incidentally, that a man who wouldn't sign his name was M. W. Fuller, or New York." The name sounds familiar," said the other. In a little while the "unknown" put in an appearance. He wore long gray hair, and his bright, strong face was soon for the "unknown" put in an appearance. The secret of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he of Supreme Court of the United States. The secret of his "incog" mode of traveling was that he didn't want to be interviewed. He had several callers during the day, and made a few short calls himself. He and Mrs. Fuller, with Miss Fuller, are on their way to Maine, where they are going to keep cool for a while, while senators "swelter" over the question of the confirmation.

Knights of Pythias Membership. From the Omaha Bee, June 20.
The Rev. William E. Copela likely to obtain national notoriety from his reso lutions offered at the recent convention of the Supreme Lodge, Knights of Pythias, to exclude from the order all retailers of intoxicating liquors. The explicit declaration is made that grave doubt exists as to the sound moral character of saloon-keepers and bartenders, and it is proposed that the Supreme Lodge shall require all subordinate lodges to suspend or expel from membership persons engaged in those occupations, on the ground that they are not of good moral character as contemplated by the constitution of the order. The matter was referred to a committee and will not be acted upon until the next annual meeting of the Supreme Lodge, but it is likely meanwhile to create a good deal of agitation in the order. The relative strength of the saloon-keepers in the organization is understood to be so large that their exclusion would have the effect to materially weaken it, besides which they very likely have a considerable number of sympathizers who would withdraw with them from the order if the proposed policy should prevail. The explicit declaration is made that grave doubt

Senator Tabor's Divorced Wife.

Denver Letter to Richmond Times.

The first Mrs. Tabor is living quietly here in Denver, and she is now worth nearly a million. I can count up $600,000 worth of property which she owns in Denver alone, and she has many investments outside. She is a shrewd business woman, and she speculates in stocks and mines woman, and she speculates in stocks and mines and makes money. At one time she had a large interest in telephone stock, and she has interests in a number of mines. She is careful; knows a good thing when she sees it, and says she is making a fortune to use with Tabor when he has lost his pile and comes back to her. She looks upon Tabor's present marriage, I am told, as an infatuation which is bound to pass away, and does not seem to think the present marriage gives Mrs. Tabor No. 2 any right to him. The first Mrs. Tabor is respected by Denver society, and she has a good standing. She is a Christian woman and is very charitable. very charitable.

A Case of Human Glanders. From the London St. Stephen's Gazette.
The awful death of Mme. Pavlakoff, one of the most charming amongst all that bevy of charming Russian ladies who sometimes gladden the winters of Paris, has created a terrible shock among the circles so lately embellished by her presence. The unhappy lady left Paris but a short time ago on a unhappy lady left Paris but a short time ago on a summer tour to Germany. While stepping from the door of her hotel at Berlin to gain her carriage she let fall one of her bracelets close to the pavement. Stooping to pick it up she observed laughingly that "one of the horses belonging to the next carriage had kissed her." Next day the unfortunate lady was taken ill with that most horrible disease, glanders, and in a few more days breathed her last, in spite of the attendance of the first physicians of Berlin and every resource to be obtained by wealth or by the ceaselers vigilance of friends.

The Terrible Work of the French Rifle From the London Telegraph.

According to all accounts the new "Lebel rifle" is a wondrous weapen, and is destined to do terrible things in the hands of French soldiers. The members of the Academy of Medicine, wishing to diagnose the physical consequences of wounds in-flicted by the bullets of the gun, recently had exflicted by the bullets of the gun, recently had experiments made on twenty corps, probably those of paupers whom nobody owned, or those of ill-fated waifs picked up at the morgue. The bodies were placed at the ordinary firing distances, from 200 yards up to a mile or so. The bullets whizzed through the bones and pierced them without fracturing them, as is done by the bullets of the "Gras rifle," The wounds, if they may be called so, which were inflicted were small in their punctures, and consequently very dangerous and difficult to heal. Injuries inflicted at short distances were so considerable that, in the opinion of the surgeons, they would be almost incurable. At the longest range—2,000 meters—a poplar tree was hit, but the bullet did not go through the tree. At 1,200 meters the tree was pierced through and through. The discharges of the rifle are unaccompained by smoke, and the reports are comparatively feeble.

From the Chicago Mail.

The New York delegate is easily picked out by his dress and manner. If there is still any doubt as to his identity you might approach him and ask him if he wants the earth. If he is a genuine New Yorker he will reply: "Well, you might leave it in my back yard and I will take a look at it. If I conclude to take it I will let you know."

A FEW WORDS TO ADVERTISERS.

AN UNPARALLELED SHOWING.

The Best Local Advertising Medium

in the World.

With entire confidence THE WASHINGTON EVENIMO

STAR is presented to the public as the best local advertising medium to be found in the whole range of journalism. This claim is based upon certain firmly-established facts, which are well worthy the consideration of all persons interested in communicating with the public in regard to any business proposition whatever. It rests primarily on the broad and solid foundation that THE STAR CITculates in the city where printed a larger number of copies in proportion to population than any paper in the world. And not only is its circulation the largest and fullest, but it is also the sest, since people of the District of Columbia as a body, but into their homes,-into the families of all classes, and into those of the money-spending as well as the money-earning portion of the community,-in a larger ratio than any daily journal of general circulation that can be named. By reason of the fullness, freshness, and reliability of its news local, domestic, and foreign, its independent and fair treatment of all public questions, its intelligent and effective devotion to local interests, and its close attention to matters with which the household, and especially its lady members, are concerned, THE STAR is everywhere recognized and admitted to be, in every quality, the leading and favorite newspaper of the National Capital,

In support of these statements attention is i vited to the tables below. They not only show the circulation and advertising patronage of the paper for the several years named, but, by the remarkamonth over the corresponding month in the previous year, they also illustrate, in the most forcible manner possible, the esteem in which the paper is held in the city of its home, and by those who are best able to judge of its merits as a newspaper and its value as an advertising medium. These are the figures referred to, with which a comparison is challenged:

alike in the counting-room, the work-shop, and the family circle.

Sworn to and subscribed before me thi eigh teenth day of January, A. D. 1888. A. B. KELLY, Notarial Notary Public. Seal.

Of the total circulation given above, the books of the establishment show that an average of 17,625 copies were regularly delivered each day by catriers at the homes of permanent subscribers within the city. Of the remainder a daily average of 6,421 copies were sold at the office, in the hotels and railway stations, &c., and on the streets, by newsboys, making a grand total average within purchasing portions of the communities to which they respectively belong. The last-named is a tion of the paper, and especially to its unparalleled hold upon the household and family circle that
